

Timothy Noe

ThM Candidate in Biblical Studies (New Testament)

Princeton Theological Seminary · Piscataway, NJ

New Testament philology and the earliest Christian literature, with computational methods

timothy.daniel.noe@gmail.com · 848-239-0076 · ORCID

ABOUT

I am a ThM candidate in Biblical Studies, New Testament, at Princeton Theological Seminary. My research focuses on the linguistic and intertextual development of the earliest Christian writings (the Jesus tradition in the Gospels, the letters of Paul, and the Apostolic Fathers) working closely from the Greek alongside Hebrew and Latin. To this research I bring computational and corpus-philological methods, best represented by Ancient Library, a morphologically tagged multilingual corpus with robust search capabilities. I am also the author of the Terebinth Translation, a syntactically transparent English translation of the Greek New Testament. My previous training in physics at Duke grounds my work in rigorous quantitative method.

RESEARCH & PROJECTS

Ancient Library

A multilingual digital corpus of ancient sacred and cognate texts in Hebrew, Greek, and Latin, encoded with full morphological tagging and lemmatization and served through lemma-based concordance search, cross-reference linking, and aligned original-and-translation parallel editions.

Terebinth Translation of the New Testament

An original, syntactically transparent English translation of the New Testament that mirrors the word order, clause structure, and grammatical relationships of the underlying Greek, intended as a study resource for scholars and advanced students working directly with the Greek text.

EDUCATION

2026–2027	ThM, Biblical Studies Princeton Theological Seminary · New Testament focus
2024–2026	M.A., Religious Studies Rutgers University · New Testament focus · GPA 4.0
2019–2021	M.P.A., Public Administration University of Nevada, Las Vegas
2009–2013	B.A., Physics Duke University · Philosophy minor

LANGUAGES & SKILLS

Ancient: Biblical Greek — advanced reading proficiency · Biblical Hebrew — intermediate reading proficiency · Latin — intermediate reading proficiency · Syriac — introductory (summer intensive)

Modern: Italian — proficient (reading and conversation) · German — reading exam in progress (2026) · French — elementary · Spanish — basic programming: Python · JavaScript

SERVICE

Volunteer

Beth Mardutho Institute — Web Developer (2026–present)

Knights of Columbus — 3rd Degree Member (2025–present)

St. Joseph's Catholic Church, Las Vegas — food recovery and meal service (2018–2019)

Church

Our Lady of Fatima, Piscataway, NJ (2024–present) — Catechist (5th grade); Lector (weekly Wednesdays, monthly Sundays); Heritage Day Committee

CONTACT

The best way to reach me is by email: timothy.daniel.noe@gmail.com.

Citizenship: United States · Italy.

© 2026 Timothy Noe.